REGULATIONS REGARDING COURSE OF STUDY ADOPTED FOR THE GRADED SCHOOLS.

SCHOLARSHIP.—At the middle and close of each term a statement showing the progress and deportment of each pupil in the grammar and high school departments shall be sent to the parents. The committee request parents to examine same carefully, sign and return.

EXAMINATIONS.—In all grades above primary, examinations shall be held at the middle and close of each term, and in case of absence of a pupil, such pupil must pass the examination before going on with the class.

PROMOTIONS.—At the end of the year, at the close of the summer term in June, each pupil whose standing, computed from daily recitations and the regular examinations, averages for all studies 70 per cent shall be promoted to the next higher grade. A pupil whose average is less than 70 will seriously endanger his chances of promotion. Promotions will be publicly announced at the annual graduating exercises.

HONORS.—The honors of valedictory and salutatory shall be assigned upon the basis for scholarship of the last year's course in the high school department.

RHETORICALS.—Regular exercises in essay writing and in declamations or recitations shall be held in all grades above primary, and such exercises shall be marked same as in other studies.

Read REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

To the Parents and Citizens of the School District of Troy:

Following our usual custom we present a brief synopsis of the year's work in our schools. A revised course of study is found elsewhere. The financial report follows, together with a comprehensive outlook of the condition of our schools, by our supervisor, Dr. S. H. McCollester. We have continued the supervision, we feel, with beneficial results. We believe fully in the system. Dublin has been added to the supervisory district, making four towns with thirty schools under the supervisor, with a salary of $1,200.00 per year. Dublin having five schools and paying $200.00, the remaining towns, Marlboro, Troy and Fitzwilliam, each paying $333.33. One-half of this amount is paid by the state, making the net expense to the town, $166.67, but as we received $379.56 under the equalization law, we do not feel it an additional burden to the town.

It gives us pleasure to report an excellent condition in all the schools in our village. The only change in the teaching force has been in the principalship, Miss Martha Atkinson, a graduate of Tuft's college taking Miss Holland's position. Excellent work has been done in this room. I believe Miss Atkinson is desirous of making this a successful school, and is working to that end. The remaining departments have continued under the same instructors, Mrs. Brown, in the primary, Mrs. Parker, in the secondary, Miss King, in the intermediate, and Miss Fisher, in the grammar, faithful, conscientious teachers, who are deeply interested in their work, and who, we feel are striving to secure the best results from their labors. The supervision of music has continued under the same teacher, Miss Wheeler, with gratifying results. We should be sorry to dispense with this branch of learning. Drawing has been added to the school curriculum, above the primary grade. In our outside schools, Miss Clark has worked untiringly for the interests of her pupils, with most pleasing results.

In the West Hill and Merrifield schools, Miss Smith and Miss Corey continued their work in the spring term, but entering the Keene High School in the fall for a further continuance of study, we secured in their places, teachers with normal training, Miss Helen F. Dearborn and Miss Florence E. Cass in the respective schools. (In the former, the result has been somewhat disappointing.) Miss Dearborn was a lady, possessing superior qualifications, but having under her instruction several lawless pupils, who, by their disobedience retarded the work of the whole school, we closed the school for the winter, deeming it unwise to continue it. We trust the lesson has been a salutary one. Marked results have been attained in the Merrifield school under the instruction of Miss Cass. We have been very much pleased with the progress made. We are desirous of giving our outside schools the same number of weeks as in the village, and in this matter ask the hearty coöperation of parents and pupils.

We have increased the salary of our janitor as well as those of some of our teachers, also giving additional weeks in some of the rooms. We would therefore recommend for the maintainance of schools the coming year, in addition to the sum required by law,

$1,300 00

Free books, 350 00

For music, 100 00

Humanity is frail, mistakes will occur, but we are desirous of giving the youth of our town the best education at its disposal.

The board wish to express their grateful appreciation of the support rendered to them by the people the past year. We sincerely thank you for it.

Respectfully submitted,

AURILLA M. HARRIS,

HENRY L. BARNARD,

REPORT OF THE SUPERVISOR OF SCHOOLS,
FOR THE LAST FINANCIAL YEAR.

To the School Board of Troy:

Allow me to present you with my second report of your schools. It affords me pleasure in the main to do so, for I can say with truth that your schools have been making progress in mental and moral culture. I would not dare say this, were it not true; for we cannot afford to deceive as to anything, especially as to school affairs. During the year I have been into the schools, when in session, as often as once in every eight or ten days, with the view of finding out the real standing of the pupils as to their studies, and what were the spirit, method and work of the teachers; always aiming to encourage the students to do their best in preserving order, studying and reciting their lessons, emphasizing the need of thoroughness in all branches taken up, particularly in the elements and fundamental principles of learning. After some fifty years of experience in teaching, having charge, or superintendency of schools, and having visited a large number of them in our own country, in Europe, Asia, Japan, Egypt and Mexico, with the view of seeing and learning what was being done in behalf of educating the young, I ought to be able to judge in some degree what does really constitute a good school. The longer I live the more forcefully do I feel the responsibility resting upon parents and those in charge of our schools. If these are remiss in fulfilling duty, who can estimate the sure retribution that will be meted out to them? Let these all do their whole duty, and then it will be hard for the young to go astray. The great trouble today is, too many children are allowed to come up themselves, making their own laws and so doing as they please. Now this would not be the case, if all parents felt as they should, responsible for the conduct of their children from their birth to their majority, yes, responsible for their behavior at home, on the streets, in the school, the church and other public places. Even, if they delegate some authority over their children to others, that does not relieve them of moral and legal obligation to their offspring. So with all this in mind, I am pleased to say that, as a whole, your schools have achieved during the last three terms an excellent record. There have been but a few cases, comparatively speaking, of whispering, profanity, damaging school property and administering corporal punishment save in one school only. The children on the street, about the school buildings and in public places, so far as I have seen and been able to learn, have been respectful and polite. When any damage has been done to school property, with, perhaps, two exceptions, the unfortunate ones have come right forward, as they should, to teacher, or school officer, stating facts and being ready to settle for the damage. I have urged upon pupils to see that no markings are made in the books, or defacements made on the inside or outside of the buildings. There is need that special care should be exercised to have neatness expressed everywhere about our schools. The old saying still holds true: "As is the home, so will be the children, and as is the school, so will be the pupils."

THE TEACHERS.

For a town to have a carefully selected, well qualified and efficient corps of teachers is a great blessing. Such I know you have intended to employ, and as I have witnessed them in their work, I have been convinced that you were in the main very fortunate in securing those that rank high as to moral character, a love for teaching, cultured minds and aptness to instruct. It seems that their first object of working in the schoolroom, is not for money but to do good in awakening, enlightening and training young minds to think and advance, as fast as possible in gaining self-discipline and useful knowledge. Most of them have been quite free from the use of the text book in hearing classes, showing previous preparation, as should always be the case for class work. This is certainly to be commended and should be required of the teachers as a rule, for the teacher who is not prepared to ask and answer the leading questions of a lesson, is not fitted to teach it. What is most needed in class work is that live coals of thought should drop freely from the mind of the teacher. Moodiness or dullness on the part of the teacher will not make young minds glow and sparkle with thought, any more than punkwood will fire a sand bank. Your teachers have not indulged to any extent in putting questions so as to imply their answers, nor in the pouring in process, which fills the pupil's mind more than full, causing much to run to waste. The instruction mostly has been direct, thoughtful, earnest and very sure to leave a lasting impression to aid in building up character, which should be life's chief object.

In their discipline with a few exceptions they have manifested tact and judgment, and so have been able to sustain good order in their schools. It is a pleasure and satisfaction to be able to speak thus commendatory of your teachers. They have done an exalted work for the pupils that have been under their instruction the past year, giving assurance of better and better work so long as they shall remain in your employ. They have always spoken as not fully satisfied with the present, being resolved upon making tomorrow better than today. Their example and walk before their scholars have been uplifting and worthy of imitation. I can but feel that all true parents will hold your teachers in kindly and grateful remembrance for the self-sacrificing help and instruction which they have given their children the past year.

THE SCHOLARS.

The hope of the future is in the rising generation. Let the school children of Troy be true to their natural inheritance and appreciation of the educational advantages proffered them, and they will be certain to render the future of their town more prosperous than ever in the past. Are we wont to realize that it is not farms, mills, stores and costly residences that give intrinsic value to a town, but Christian and cultured character? This being true, the home, the school, and the church are the important factors in rendering a town attractive and famous for producing good characters. The school serves an important adjunct in producing such a desired result. What picture is more thrilling than that of a schoolroom, filled with orderly and studious pupils, wholly devoted to study and class-work? How the faces shine as minds grasp new thoughts! Each is treasuring up truths that will abide in the mind forever. The teacher is alive in stimulating the pupils onward and upward. All seem bound to pluck the highest and best fruit on the tree of knowledge. Such a school promises the best reports of scholarship and deportment. Is it possible to have all our public schools thus conditioned? We think so, if all the people will so live as to render it difficult for the young in their midst to go wrong. As a rule the seeds of improper conduct in school are sown in the home, or in the by-ways outside of the school. Let it be enforced upon the young that they should no more think of disturbing the school than the church meeting, and only in extreme cases would it be done.

Now honored school board, I am not going to say that I have found such a perfected school in your town, but I am glad that some of yours are fast approaching such a state. The greater part of your pupils have appeared in the schoolroom to be disposed and desirous of helping make a first-class school, seeming to comprehend the fact that full as much depends upon the pupils, as the teacher, in making an excellent school.

A large number of the pupils have ranked well in scholarship and deportment; and not a few have received during the year certificates of perfect attendance, and thus have caused their names to be placed upon the roll of honor.

We regret that two boys so lost their good sense and carried such a high hand in being determined to have their own way in doing mischief and disturbing the schools attended, that the school authorities were obliged to suspend them from school, until they shall come forward, asking to be restored and promising the very best behavior, so long as they shall continue in school. The time has fully come when we should realize that we have no moral right to let a bad boy, or girl, remain in school to the detriment of faithful students. Of course all pupils of school age should be in school, but the insubordinate that are in need of police discipline, should be put in an institution established to govern and reform wayward youths. Most of the students have held their grade, and several have been promoted in part, or in full, to a higher class, sustaining their advancement with credit to all concerned. As a whole I can report the pupils under your charge, as having done excellently well, giving evidence of better results in the years to come.

PARENTS.

As already intimated, parents are responsible for the right education of their children. These are gifts entrusted to their keeping. This momentous work could be more readily done, could their children always remain at home; but this is impossible; therefore, to have them safe as they go into society, it is essential that all should be properly educated and trained; this makes a demand for the public school, which requires all the children in its vicinity to be in it, or in some other condition where an equivalent education can be obtained. Now this is looking to the welfare of the whole people, clearly showing us that, if we would have good and safe society in which to live, we must have the best of public schools. To do this, ample means must be raised for their support, comfortable and convenient buildings must be furnished, the best of teachers must be secured to instruct the children, and with all the rest, the schools should be carefully supervised and often visited by parents, to know just how they are being managed. Judgments concerning them should not be formed on mere hearsays, particularly from the pupils, for they may be prompted by self-interest, biased in their own favor and against those differing in opinion from themselves. No farmer thinks of turning away his stock to pasture for the summer without going, as often as once in two weeks, to salt them and ascertain their condition. No tradesman will fill a store with costly goods and place them in charge of clerks without frequently inspecting the account books and looking after his business. This is as it should be. Is there not a stronger reason, why parents should visit the schools which their children are attending, to ascertain just how and what they are doing? Then, if the school affairs are moving on successfully, encourage them; if not, then take proper steps to remedy the evils. This speaking unkindly of schools and never going near them, is decidedly wrong, quite certain to retard their progress and greatly injure young minds. Disgruntled parents, who fret and scold about schools, but never go near them, are the greatest drawbacks we have to the cause of education.

I should judge that as many visits have been made to the schools of Troy during the last year as usual; still we do feel that all parents are under special obligation to visit their schools several times during each year for the sake of their children and their own benefit. The schools and the churches should draw the crowds, not the minstrel show, nor the circus.

BRIEFS.

Your supervisor has made during the year 147 visits to your schools; held three teachers' meetings; and three educational meetings. Your school buildings are now in very good repair; but slight damage has been done to them during the year. With but one exception, when pupils have done injury to the buildings they have come right forward relating facts and wishing to make the damage good. This is to be highly commended, but those that play the shirk and deceive are to be censured as small and mean.

For the most part the text-books have been used with care. I have discovered in a few instances pages marked with pencilings and seen some pupils carelessly bending the covers of the books back so as to meet, which is almost certain to throw the body of the book from the binding. Now as these are loaned books, they deserve to be used with the utmost care; no unnecessary defacements can or should be tolerated. The pupil that keeps his desk and books clean and orderly, is forming a habit that will always be a friend and a recommend to himself.

The greatest hindrance to advancement in the schools of Troy, as well as in other towns, is occasioned by absences and tardinesses. These waste money and injure mind. When caused by sickness we have nothing to say. But for parents to keep their children at home, when it is not absolutely demanded, is a sin. Whispering, the archfiend to our schools, still lingers somewhat in the schools of Troy. It is to be greatly desired that this enemy to highest culture should be trampled under foot, never to be revived.

A very few cases have been brought to our notice in which pupils have equivocated as to the truth and indulged somewhat in profanity. Let these great evils become active and they will soon ruin one for life. They never build up character, but always tear it down.

Your janitors have been faithful in their service, especially has this been the case with the one in charge of the village buildings. Evidently his aim, as truant officer and janitor, is to do faithfully his whole duty.

Troy is vexed like other towns with some pupils that work hard to play the truant, and their parents appear to help them on in the wrong; we do not know of any cure for this except a good dose of the law; and if they are unable to pay fines, they can pay the penalty by living on bread and water in close confinement for a while. This latter medicine has hitherto wrought remarkable cures. We hope that Troy will not be obliged to resort to this medicine.

The schools out of the village should have as many weeks of schooling as those in it. The school board would be glad to have it so. This is needed in order to keep the grades at the same par throughout the town. If the parents connected with these schools should not be united and deeply interested in sustaining them, it is plain that at no distant period they will so decrease in numbers and interest, as to be given up, and what pupils remain there will be required to attend school in the village. The school on East Hill, and the one in the Merrifield section have done remarkably well the past year and promise better things to come. (It is hoped the West Hill school will be restored the ensuing spring, so as to have the rank of being a good school.)

CONCLUSION.

To you, the school board, permit me to express my most grateful thanks for the coöperation and support which you have given me in my responsible duties. I also wish to express gratefulness to the teachers, who have been truly respectful as I have visited their schools, advised and counseled with them, as to methods, measures and lines of work. It has likewise afforded me inexpressible pleasure, as I have met the scholars in their schools and out of them, for they have conducted themselves with the utmost propriety, giving repeated assurances in various ways that they were doing their best to outgrow themselves in improving their minds, bodies and hearts.

As I have met parents and friends of education in your goodly town in a friendly, an official or public capacity, they have given me helpful and appreciative service, and thereby cheered me on my way in doing my best for the good of their children.

Lastly suffer me to urge you all to cherish your public schools, striving incessantly to make them better and better, and so on to the very best, and you will sooner or later receive the cheering plaudit, "Well done."

Respectfully submitted,

S. H. McCOLLESTER,
Supervisor of Your Schools.
